CULTURE & VINIFICATION

After a gentle winter with mild temperatures, spring was unusually cool. The summer was quite hot and dry compared to other years and allowed the grapes optimal concentration. Mild rains in September and a good amount of Mistral wind allowed for healthy grapes with good acidity. Manual selection, double sorting, total destemming, natural yeast, and manual punch-down / pressing of berries, and a 12 day maceration in stainless steel tanks to preserve the fruit flavors.
